SCHEDULE A, PART III, ITEM 3

STATEMENT OF DETERMINATION

The Council's various international and thematic committees sponsor a number of competitive predoctoral fellowship and advanced research grant programs. Selection procedures vary from committee to committee, but in all cases the determination of fellowships and grants is made by committees of scholars appointed for this purpose. Each committee is assisted by one or more members of the Council's professional staff, who are themselves scholars with relevant training.

Unless otherwise specified, funds are provided by various organizations including the Ford Foundation, John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, Japan-United States Friendship Commission, Rockefeller Foundation, Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership, U.S. Department of State, and the U.S. Information Agency. All programs are offered subject to the availability of funds.

Awards are made only at stated times, so that all applicants under each program will compete on an equal basis. Prospective applicants are encouraged to initiate correspondence well in advance of the deadline.

Most awards are made directly to individuals. None of the awards provide institutional overhead.

In the administration of its fellowship and grant programs, the Social Science Research Council does not discriminate on the basis of age, color, creed, disability, marital status, national origin, race, or gender. Applications for fellowships and grants are particularly invited from women and members of minority groups.

Limitations

The Council offers fellowships and grants only for purposes described in the Council's brochure, "Fellowships and Grants for Training and Research," published annually.
